HONORABLE RALPH L. CARR,
Governor of the State of Colorado,
State Capitol,
Denver, Colorado.

My dear Governor Carr:

In compliance with the provisions of the law, I have the honor to submit to you the Thirty-second Biennial Report of the State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

Most respectfully,

INEZ JOHNSON LEWIS.

Denver, December 20, 1940.

HONORABLE RALPH L. CARR,
Governor State of Colorado,
State Capitol,
Denver, Colorado.

Dear Governor Carr:

During the biennial period, beginning July 1, 1938, conditions changed materially in the state and throughout the nation. A world of peace became a world of chaos. Democracies everywhere were endangered. As war came closer to our shores, we were confronted by the all important question—Is our democracy safe?

Recent developments prove that we must improve our educational program throughout the country if our democratic form of government is to stand the test. The people of this great Commonwealth must decide the issues at stake. The intelligence of their decisions will be proportionate to their ability to study and judge wisely. Our schools must meet the challenge, therefore, by doing a better job than has ever been done before of preparing citizens to take their place in our democracy.

As we look back over the years we find that the State Department of Education has advanced slowly but surely during each biennial period. The steady progress which has been made is the result of the cooperative efforts of loyal teachers, administrators, and citizens who have been interested in studying the needs of the schools and the importance of education not only for the future of the state but of the nation. Adjustments are needed, but they can be made only as we study and analyze the educational program. May we, therefore, briefly summarize accomplishments made during this past biennium and point out certain problems yet to be solved. Among the accomplishments we find:

Junior colleges have been established.

A Director of Elementary Education was appointed July, 1939. He has developed a spirit of cooperation with teachers and school officials throughout the state and coordinated their work with that of the State Department. His work has increased the efficiency of rural schools, heretofore without state supervision.

The Traveling Auditor and Bookkeeper has rendered valuable service to school officials in planning budgets, making reports, and giving financial advisory service. His work has resulted in real saving to the taxpayers of the state.

The State Department has continued to sponsor the Adult Education, Recreation, Nursery School, State-wide Library and Hot Lunch Projects of the Works Progress Administration. It has also served as co-sponsor for the program of the National Youth Administration.

Financial studies have been made and statistics supplied to various educational agencies. Two units of the high school course of study, social science and English, have been issued. The State Library has rendered excellent service to the citizens of all counties.

The Bureau of Home and School Service has done an excellent job in coordinating the efforts of the home and the school on matters of common concern. An especially significant aspect of this department's work has been the assistance given to handicapped children, such as: testing hearing, aiding teachers in local schools to provide an educational program for those with special defects, helping establish special rooms for children with physical handicaps that prevent their taking part in the regular school program.

Among the problems yet to be solved are:

Equalization of the tax burden.

Aid to districts with low valuations.

A better system of transportation.

Opportunities for all youth to have a high school education.

Assistance to districts with a sudden influx of school population.

More adequate buildings in poor districts.

Supervisory service for high schools.

In fact, the equalizing of educational opportunities still remains a challenge of primary importance to the people of our state.

Only through education can our democratic form of government be preserved. Legislators, citizens, teachers, taxpayers, administrators, and the State Department of Education, must work together in supporting this cause for the common good.

INEZ JOHNSON LEWIS,
State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

REPORT OF THE WORK OF THE ELEMENTARY DIVISION OF THE STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

July 1, 1939, to June 30, 1940

The Elementary Division was organized July 1, 1939, for the purpose of assisting those engaged in educational work with the problems which they are meeting in the improvement of instruction.

Plan of Work

The general plan of the Elementary Division has been to work intensively on one or two problems at a time in the field of elementary education. When sufficient information and suggestions on the problems have been accumulated, a bulletin is issued, making this information and these suggestions available to the teachers of the state. These bulletins then become the basis for discussion at meetings of teachers held throughout the state. By these means, the best available information in the various elementary fields is provided for the teachers, and the use of such information is encouraged.

Reading Chosen for First Work

The first problems attacked were in the field of reading. Major emphasis was placed upon the problem of Adapting the Reading Program to the Needs of the Individual Child. Reading experts were consulted, the literature in the field covered, teachers who were attempting to meet the problem were visited, and two committees of teachers assisted in gathering information on ways and means of adjusting reading work to individual needs. On June 30, 1940, a bulletin on this subject was nearing completion.

Other work in the field of reading consisted of assisting the Colorado State Library in preparing bibliographies of Free Materials, Supplementary Books for Social Studies and Science, and Books of Easy Difficulty for the Recreatory Reading of Slow Learning Children. These bibliographies will be available to teachers by the fall of 1940.

Many inquiries from teachers in regard to the teaching of Phonics led the Elementary Division to begin a study of the best practices in this field. A bulletin on Teaching Phonics was begun late in the year.

County Visitation Program

A program of county visitation was carried on, consisting of holding meetings with groups of teachers to discuss reading and other instructional problems, visits to schools where special help was desired, and individual conferences with county superintendents and teachers in regard to problems in improving instruction. At the request of the county superintendents of the counties in the San Juan Basin, the Elementary Division cooperated with the Fort Lewis Branch of the Colorado State College at Hesperus in holding a week's conference on supervision for county superintendents.

Survey of the Elementary School Principalship

In cooperation with the Colorado Association of Elementary Principals, the Elementary Division began a survey to determine the present status of elementary principalships in Colorado. Questionnaires were sent to 800 persons in charge of elementary schools in the state. On the basis of these replies, a report will be issued which will be helpful in planning for the improvement of the administration and supervision of the state's elementary schools.

REPORT OF THE TRAVELING AUDITOR AND BOOKKEEPER

Submitted by

John A. Lundberg

The Traveling Auditor and Bookkeeper has found that there is a great need for personal contact between the State Department of Education and the officials who control the machinery of our public school system.

Under the present set-up of small school districts controlled by a small group of officials, we found it necessary to hold regional meetings in central points, at which the 1939 School Laws and other major laws were thoroughly discussed. Six of these meetings were held in 1939 and they were attended by forty-five county superintendents.

The results of these regional meetings were most gratifying, as the attending county superintendents were able to clear up many confusing problems and pass their findings on to their local school boards.

During the year 1939 and the first half of 1940, from one to four visits have been made by the Auditor upon the special requests of twenty-one counties. In several of these counties it was necessary to spend three or four days in order to help individual board members with their school budgets, as well as County Superintendents with their report. This personal service to these counties has resulted in a definite money savings to the taxpayer.

The making of the budget is the most important problem each school district must solve each year. By meeting with nearly 300 boards throughout the State during the years 1939 and 1940 valuable service has been rendered and a marked improvement in the financial structure of the districts so helped has been noted. In many cases it was found that when the financial laws were explained to the boards they could then solve their own problems.

The gathering of the school census, and compilation of all reports has been made much easier for the County Superintendents, school boards, and also the State Office by the personal service given. The most striking example of this is the County Superintendent's Annual Report to the State Department. These reports were filed more promptly and more nearly correct this last year than at any time during the observance of the present administration.

County Superintendents and local boards appreciate the personal services rendered by the State Department and, as these services increase, the public school systems of Colorado will become more efficient.

COLORADO STATE LIBRARY

Biennial Report 1938-1940

MRS. INEZ JOHNSON LEWIS, State Librarian, Ex-Officio,
ROBERT A. LUKE, Assistant Librarian.

July 1, 1938, found the State Library closed, by executive order on January 1, 1938. It remained closed until September 1, 1938, except for a staff of Work Project Administration employees. These employees, under the direction of a W. P. A. supervisor, completed an inventory of the books and equipment; recorded and shelved the Federal and State officials' publications which continued to be sent to the library (though officially closed); repaired books ready for distribution when the library would resume its activities.

When the announcement of the reopening of the library was made an immediate response from the borrowers was evidenced. After thirty-seven days of operation 5,000 books had been sent to seventy-eight borrowers in thirty-five counties. Since that time the number of books sent from the State Library has steadily increased. Complete circulation statistics for the library during the biennial period are given in the Statistical Report.

After the book service had been resumed, the most immediate problem presented with the reopening of the library was the necessity of making available for circulation books which had accumulated both during the period the library had been closed and also material which had been received by the library for several years past but which, because of inadequate staff and funds, remained uncataloged. With the assistance of the W. P. A. employees all cataloging, filing, and book processing was brought up-to-date before the close of the biennium. A major technical change made in the library during the period was the reclassification of over 50,000 official publications of the various states into a new and expanded classification. This work was three-fourths completed at the close of biennium.

In 1938 the State Library began to issue two series of mimeographed publications. A News Bulletin is issued eight times during the school year and is sent to all libraries in the State as well as to the borrowers of the State Library. At irregular intervals the Extension Bulletins are issued. This series includes the popular "Colorado: General Information" and "Indians of Colorado" in addition to four bibliographies compiled for elementary schools and a quarterly checklist of all official publications issued by the governmental agencies of the State of Colorado.

With less than two thousand dollars available each year for the purchase of books it has been essential that the greatest care be exercised in purchasing additions to the library. An attempt has been made to provide a book collection which will meet the needs for recreation and for the information of the general reader in most fields of knowledge. No attempt has been made or was possible to develop collections in specialized fields. When books of a technical or specialized nature have been requested, the library has attempted to borrow the materials from another library.

The library continued the former policy of loaning books to employees of the State and in furnishing reference and information service to State Departments. The majority of reference work, however, was done by correspondence. The library supplied books, pamphlets, maps, pictures, and special research material to club leaders, teachers, C. C. C. camp instructors and individuals in all sections of the State. Grateful acknowledgment is made to the librarian and staff of the Denver Public Library for their particular cooperation in permitting the State Library to make inter-library loans from their large collection and in placing at the disposal of the State Library specialized research materials.

Acknowledgment is also made to the many friends of the library who gave gifts of books and periodicals. Library materials received in this way, which, because of unnecessary duplication or other reasons, were not cataloged in the State Library collection were given in turn to the smaller libraries of the State.

With the cooperation of the Supervisor of the W. P. A. State-wide library project (sponsored by the State Department of Education), a survey was undertaken of the public library resources of the state. When the tabulations of the survey were completed the responsibility of the State Library to continue to promote the extension of rural libraries as its major activity was clearly apparent. The survey revealed that one hundred per cent of the urban population in Colorado had free access to public library facilities but that only thirty per cent of the rural population had this same privilege. The survey further indicated that in urban areas the per capita expenditure for library purposes was fifty-eight cents compared to an expenditure of only five cents in rural areas.

In recognizing these inequalities of library service the State Library is just entering the long road toward genuine state-wide rural library service. The recent increases in state-library service mark progress but they also emphasize the extent of the field yet to be served. A continuous program of publicity throughout the state is essential to assure maximum use of State Library resources. Promotion of free public library service to urban and rural people needs the stimulation of an active educational campaign sponsored and conducted by librarians, trustees of libraries, and other representative citizens. The state library extension agency can guide and direct this development in proportion only to the adequacy of its support.

BIENNIAL REPORT BUREAU OF HOME AND SCHOOL SERVICEJuly 1, 1938-June 30, 1940

This Bureau was formerly the Child Welfare Bureau, established by statute in 1919. Its name was changed to Bureau of Home and School Service by the Extraordinary Session of the legislature in 1935.

Services of this bureau include various extra-curricular activities which come into the realm of the Department of Education. During the biennium, activities centered around (1) education of physically handicapped children, (2) organization of parent and community groups throughout the state working in conjunction with the Colorado Congress of Parents and Teachers and (3) development of parent education classes, in cooperation with the State Board for Vocational Education, Parent-Teacher groups and local school districts. There has been research work in the field of safety, studies have been made of the causes of juvenile delinquency and of laws pertaining to children.

The bureau operated under a Board of Control until abolished by the General Assembly of 1939 by an act repealing Chapter 146, Sections 287 and 288, Vol. 4, 1935, C. S. A. From January, 1938, until November 1, 1938, the bureau was without funds to pay salaries, travel or office expense, because of a shortage in the state treasury. During this biennium, all counties in the state have been visited by the secretaries in different interests of the work of the bureau. Forty-two new parent groups have been organized; there have been 410 study groups meeting at least six times a year, with a total of 5,816 parents enrolled. About 4,500 handicapped children have been contacted, and educational help given in clinics, in school rooms or at home. Juvenile Court records have been examined in a number of counties. Five thousand one hundred twenty bulletins have been distributed and approximately 3,950 office calls received attention during the biennium.

GRACE T. SHAW,
Executive Secretary.

REPORT OF THE FIELD SECRETARY TO THE COLORADO
BUREAU OF HOME AND SCHOOL SERVICE*July 1, 1938-June 30, 1940

During the last biennium the field organizer, in cooperation with parents' and teachers' groups, has visited each year most of the counties and has contacted 300 local groups. There have been forty-two (42) new community units organized. Work done in these groups includes programs for health, recreation, home and school cooperation, safety, home-making, parent education, student aid, etc. In the Summer Round-up, which is a National Health project of examining children in the spring to find defects to be corrected before school opens in the fall, 2,821 children were examined.

Conferences have been held and programs arranged throughout the state. Radio programs have been given on Parent Education and Juvenile Protection. There are community groups under competent leadership studying some phase of parent education. These groups would number about 410, with a total of 5,800 attending. As a result the home and school service has developed a fine spirit of cooperation and has been mutually helpful.

The various groups throughout the state are finding the services of the Bureau increasingly helpful.

ELIZABETH SHUTTLEWORTH,
Field Secretary in Organization.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF SPECIAL EDUCATIONJuly 1, 1938-June 30, 1940

During the past biennium practically all of the counties of the state have been visited. About 4,500 children have been referred for some type of examination, including those for defective speech, hearing and mentality. Many crippled children have been visited and plans worked out for their home teaching. Many of the referred cases have been recommended for institutional care.

Emphasis during this period has been placed upon school contacts. Upon the request of the county superintendent and nurses, the Supervisor of Special Education has visited a county where lists of children to be examined had already been prepared. The larger schools have been used as centers and children have been brought there to have their various handicaps diagnosed. After school, meetings with the local teachers have been held and methods of corrective procedure discussed.

Wherever a study of cases needing educational adjustment has been begun, the county has been revisited after a six months' period and a re-examination conducted to see if remedial work has been helpful.

Fourteen rooms for special education have been established in local schools, and it is encouraging to note that most of the colleges in the state have now included courses of special education for teachers.

CAREY J. DOWNING,
Supervisor of Special Education.
